Reflection

All things come from God and return to God. Scripture proclaims that God is the source of all life, sustains that life even now, and grants eternal life. We who believe in the God of life see God's vitality reflected in nature—the gift God has given us.

---

In every moment of life and death,
our only hope is our Creator God.

This life reveals a deeper meaning to us: God of all life is our only hope. When we behold God's beauty revealed through nature, we not only praise Him but also confess in every moment of life and death that God is still worthy of praise.

At the end of our meditation through nature, our confession becomes clear. In every moment of life and death, our only hope is our Creator God, our beautiful God, and the God of salvation who saved us from sin and death. We pray that this hope becomes firm once again in us today.

03 Did You Know?

CO2 Absorption

One mature tree absorbs approximately 22kg of carbon dioxide annually and releases oxygen.

Urban Cooling

Urban trees lower surrounding temperatures through shade and transpiration, helping reduce energy use for cooling.

Forests & Water

Healthy forests and trees protect soil and store water, mitigating floods and droughts.

Future Generations

Small actions of planting and caring for trees contribute to ecosystem recovery and create a better environment for future generations.

04 This Week's Practice

! Participate in Tree Planting Donation

Participate in tree planting donation through Grace & Action offering in May. City of La Palma Tree Sponsorship Program.

Consider

God has created all things, sustains life now, and has given us the hope that He will make all things new. The small life we plant and nurture is an act of participating in God's life.

Prayer

Lord, thank You for the hope of making all things new.
May Your goodness revealed in creation flow through us.
May our lives become a message of hope that gives life to those around us.
Amen.

We pray that the hope of our Creator God flows through us to all.
